National Parks In India

- National Parks:
 - National parks are designated areas established by the government to preserve the natural environment.
 - Compared to wildlife sanctuaries, national parks have stricter regulations. Their boundaries are clearly defined and fixed.
 - The primary purpose of a national park is to safeguard the area's natural environment and conserve biodiversity.
- Activities Allowed and Prohibited Inside National Parks:
 - Human activities are prohibited within national parks.
 - Grazing of livestock and private land rights are not permitted.
 - Hunting or capturing species listed in the Schedules of the Wildlife Protection Act is strictly forbidden.
 - No individual is allowed to destroy, remove, or exploit wildlife within the park, nor can they harm the habitat of any wild animal or deprive them of their natural habitat.
 - National parks cannot be downgraded to wildlife sanctuaries.
- Declaration of National Parks:
 - National parks can be declared by both the Central and State governments.
 - The boundaries of a national park cannot be altered unless a resolution is passed by the State Legislature.
- Total Number: India has over 106 national parks, with several more proposed, covering approximately 40,500 square kilometers, about 1.23% of the country's total land area.
- First National Park: Jim Corbett National Park (Uttarakhand), established in 1936, was the first national park in India, originally named Hailey National Park.
- Largest National Park: The Hemis National Park in Ladakh is the largest, covering 4,400 square kilometers, known for its snow leopards and high-altitude landscapes.
- Smallest National Park: South Button Island National Park in the Andaman and Nicobar Islands is the smallest, covering just 0.03 square kilometers, and protecting marine ecosystems and coral reefs.
- Geographic Diversity: National parks are spread across diverse geographical terrains, from the Himalayas (e.g., Great Himalayan National Park) to the Western Ghats (e.g., Silent Valley), deserts (e.g., Desert National Park, Rajasthan), and tropical islands (e.g., Campbell Bay in the Nicobar Islands).
