States And Capitals

According to Article 1 of the Indian Constitution, India also referred to as Bharat, is described as a “Union of States.” outlines the structure and composition of the Indian Union.

This means that India is a single entity formed by the union of various states, which are listed in the First Schedule of the Constitution. The article further specifies that the territory of India includes:

- The territories of the states.
- The Union territories specified in the First Schedule.
- Any other territories that may be acquired.

This framework ensures that India is a unified nation where states do not have the right to secede from the Union, emphasizing the integrity and indivisibility of the country.
